County Is Hammered By Weather

Randall County was wracked with high winds and rain during a three-day thunderstorm last week.

More than 1.88 inches of rain was dumped in Canyon and up to four inches were reported in some areas of the county.

The three nights of rains began Thursday with a light moisture falling in town.

A cloud burst was reported at Palo Duro Canyon where the musical spectacular Fandangle was rained out.

Friday night another storm swept over the county with threats of possible tornadoes. Civil defense units, sheriff deputies and city officers were on hand late into the night checking for funnel clouds.

Randall County Sheriff's office received calls Friday of sighted funnels, but local officials failed to spot any tornadoes in the county.

Saturday night the county went under severe weather warnings at 9 p.m. Randall County Sheriff L. S. "Slim" Johnston said U. S. Highway 87,21/2 miles north of Happy was covered with a foot of water for more than 45 minutes Saturday.

Farm-to-Market Road 1705, two miles north of Happy, reportedly was covered with two feet of water as a result of the storm.

The Wayside road, Farm-to-Market 287, was also run over with water. Johnston said the water over the roads did not stop any cars, but did slow traffic in the area.

The county highway department received a call late Saturday that several persons were stranded on farm road 168 south

Rains Help Local Crops

Crops in Randall County began to look better this week following three days of rain.

Needed planting moisture fell in varied amounts throughout the county Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights.

Reports of four inches of rain east of Happy were the largest amounts reported in Randall County. An accumulation of about two inches from the four days of rains is common over the county.

Dryland wheat harvest was temporarily halted after more than half the crop was combined. Harvest of the irrigated acres has not gained full steam. No serious crop damage has been reported from hail or high winds.

Adequate moisture seems to have fallen over the county to plant grain sorghum, bundle feed, and summer grazing crops. Farmers will quickly plow the fields to destroy the new crop of young weeds which follow the first rain and get in the feed crops. Time is beginning to grow short.

Ranges and pastures will receive a boost. The grasses will quickly green up but the amount of grazing will be limited on the overgrazed ranges unless timely rains follow.

Men, Bonnets, Celebration

"Grandma's" Bud Parker and R. B. Allen donned new bonnets commemorating Randall County's 75th Anniversary celebration tripped daintily down to the corner drugstore for a spot of coffee Tuesday afternoon. The bonnets, and also top hats and derbies are being sold by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Rain Hits Fandangle Big Box Office Blow

Three nights of rained out performances..well, that's just show biz.

This attitude was expressed by the western musical cast of Fandangle last Saturday night when a full house at the Palo Duro amphitheater had to grab raincoats and run for the shelter of cars.

Saturday night's show was the third straight performance attempted in the outdoor theater in Palo Duro Canyon.

But the cast of Albany and Panhandle folks took it in stride and looked forward to a bright night Sunday.

Sunday night did bring out the stars, and the show did go on.

A full house saw the extra performance Sunday, which was sponsored as a benefit for the Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

A capacity crowd of 1326 sat and stood through the two-hour show, which depicted the wild west in the early settling days.

Special guest to the Sunday night performance was Paul Green, writer of the foundation spectacular which is to be presented next summer in the amphitheater. Green's play is to be a history of the growth and development of the Panhandle area.

Charter buses brought interested persons to the theater Sunday night from Friona, Hereford, Shamrock, Lubbock, Borger and Spearman.

"We had wonderful reception from area towns. People were so nice about being rained out. They were disappointed, because they wanted to see the show, but they were so understanding," one foundation spokesman said.

Green, who had flown into Canyon from Kentucky to see the show, had several comments about the musical.

"I think the Palo Duro Canyon amphitheater will, when finished--landscaped, planted and fully equipped--be the most beautiful amphitheater, not only in this country but in Europe," he said.

"The wonderful reception given Fandangle by local people and to the people from a great distance also shows that this amphitheater can and will become one of the most important sources of civic entertainment, culture and education imagined. Not only can it serve as a home for a yearly showing of the Panhandle story-drama, but it can be used in many ot-

Some Folks Get Tax Hikes Here

About 130 Randall County taxpayers will receive increases this year according to information received by commissioners court from Tax Assessor-Collector Bill Money.

Money told commissioners that about 100 cases involve real estate and 30 involve personal property.

Some property recently annexed to the city has been raised 25 percent, Money said. He said valuations have been raised on some property on the E-Way, Western and on Washington Street.

He said all property owners would be notified and may appear at an equalization board meeting June 29. The meeting will be held at 1 o'clock in the afternoon in commissioners courtroom.

Money said taxes are assessed on a basis of 12 1/2 percent of actual valuation. The rate of $1.45 per $100 valuation is broken down in the following manner. Jury levy is 5 cents; road and bridge, 30 cents; general fund, 40 cents; courthouse and jail, 20 cents; sinking fund, 20 cents and road and bridge fund special levy voted by the people, 30 cents.

Money told commissioners that he has had some trouble in making assessments on some herds of transient cattle in the county Jan. 1. He said he knows of at least four such herds on which he has sufficient information to make a levy.

Concensus of commissioners discussing the matter was that Money should make such a levy.

In other action, the court authorized advertising for bids on a paving machine.

Extra help was authorized for the district clerk in preparation of the jury wheel.

Contracts were awarded on three road jobs in Precinct 1. PIC Company of Amarillo was awarded a contract for 1 mile of new paving on 65th Street at $8,250.

J. Lee Milligan Company agreed to do some road patching in the precinct for $255. Prince Construction Company was awarded a contract to do seven miles plus of resurfacing for $11,494.43.

WT Music Camp Set Mid-July

More than 600 students have enrolled for the West Texas State University Music Camp to be held July 12 through July 24.

Registration for the 12th annual camp is below the total of 700 persons who attended last year.

Numerous applications have been received from students living in Oklahoma and New Mexico, in addition to students within a 100-mile radius of Canyon and others from more distant parts of Texas, according to Dr. John Green, head of the music department.

Included in camp activities are classes scheduled from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and planned recreation during the evenings. Morning band classes are required for students. During the afternoon, students have a choice of attending theory classes, music appreciation classes, ensemble classes, or twirling and drum major instruction.

The camp will be concluded with a concert July 24 featuring all musicians attending the

Fun, Games At Lion's Carnival

Good 'ole' fashion family fun begins Monday night at the annual Lion's Club Carnival.

Floyd Lassiter, carnival chairman, said fun for youngsters of all ages will be provided at the carnival, which begins at 7 p.m. every night, Monday through Saturday.

The merry-making will be held in front of the Rex Reeves Elementary School between Tenth and Twelfth Avenues.

The street carnival will close at 10 p.m. each night except Saturday.

"We will keep the carnival, booths and rides open until the last person leaves Saturday night," Lassiter said.

Among entertainment will be a dunking board where local girls will be the objects of. strong-armed men of the community. The girls will be dunked in a tub of water if the men are able to aim true.

Other activities on the mall will be a bear pitch, a keg pitch, baseball cats, bingo, a Girl Scout booth, a Boy Scout booth, and a booth sponsored by the Randall County Home Demonstration Clubs.

Rides will include a caterpillar, a train, ferris wheel, boats for the tots and the tilt-a-whirl.

All prizes will be given by the Canyon Lions Club.

Money earned from the week-long carnival will go to the Lions Club Activity Fund for civic improvements projects.

Emergency Conditions

Randall County farmers will have emergency hay grazing privileges, according to a telegram received Tuesday from Congressman Walter Rogers.

Jerrell Shaw, director of the local ASCS office, said the county's disaster committee applied to the state for emergency grazing permission of soil band land to sustain cattle.

The request was approved by the state and sent to Washington, D. C. for approval. Approval was granted Tuesday, June 16, for nine Panhandle counties in the 18th Congressional District.

Shaw said arrangements for the extended grazing should be made through the county ASCS office.

Top Journalists Will See Canyon This Fall

Newsmen To Tour Museum, Canyons

Forty-six newspapers, publications and wire service representatives are expected to visit Canyon this fall under sponsorship of the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

Frank Hildebrand, Austin, executive director of the agency, said the list of expected guests includes representatives of some of the best known publications in the country.

The group will come here as a part of a West Texas tour which will begin Nov. 4 and wind up Nov. 13.

Hildebrand said some 80,000,000 circulation is expected to be represented.

He said final details for the tour are being worked out and will be announced at a later date.

The journalists will arrive at Amarillo airport about noon of Nov. 6. They will tour Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum during the afternoon and late in the afternoon will visit Palo Duro Canyon.

"I want them to see the canyon just before sunset," Hildebrand explained.

At the museum journalists will see the world's top collection of artifacts of the Plains Indian. In the canyon they will see one of the geological wonders of the world.

The journalists will be guests at a barbecue in the canyon to wind up their tour here.

They will be given a special opportunity to see the Panhandle Heritage Foundation amphitheatre in the canyon. Backers of the foundation hope to stage a historical drama there next summer portraying the conquest and settling of the Panhandle.

The tour of this area will be similar to the one staged in South and East Texas in April. Hildebrand said 26 publications were represented on that tour.

Represented on the tour last spring were United Press International, National Geographic Society, Redbook Magazine, General Features Syndicate, King Features Syndicate, Pittsburg Press, Detroit News, Chicago Sun-Times, St.

Board Grants Three Raises

Three Canyon school officials received salary raises Tuesday night.

Canyon school board voted to increase the salaries of superintendent Huelyn Laycock, business manager Jimmy Plain and tax assessor-collector Lee Foster.

The move came during a review of the 1964-65 budget.

Laycock's salary was upped $60 a month. His present salary stands at $12,187.

Plain's salary was increased from $6,899 to $7,200. Foster received a $50 a month raise putting his total at $8,100.

Trustees approved the budget which calls for an increased $52,702 over last year's budget. The proposed budget is set at $957,201. Last year the budget was $904,498.

Laycock pointed out that at the end of May a total of $732,294.73 had been spent on the budget of last year. However, the summer month's operations should absorb the rest of the proposed 1963-64 budget Laycock said.

Total revenue receipts of the proposed budget show $930,295 Last year's receipts were $897,347.

In a breakdown of the budget, the board reviewed plans showing $957,201 in non-revenue receipts.

In disbursements, administrative costs were set up at $50,174. This total was above last year's budget of $47,975.

Budget for instruction at all three levels of the school system shows $589,102.

In the public transportation area of the budget, a proposed $59,000 was suggested to the board. To operate the physical plants of the three schools $65,500 was proposed.

Plant maintenance costs were set at $13,450. Fixed charges of the school operation were set at $8,200 with student body activities registering a proposed $6,500. Debt service was lowered in the proposed budget over last year's service. The total in the tentative budget is $136,500. Last year's service amounted to $140,780.

In other action Tuesday night, the board approved the total accounts payable of $14,595.50 for the month of May.

A special meeting for June 30 was called by the board.

Hot Weather, Cold Drinks

Lauran Fulton, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fulton, found the answer for the heat last week with a cold drink stand. Lauran sold 45 cents worth of her favorite cold drink before the heat drove her inside for the afternoon. The hot days were followed last weekend by high winds and rain, but the afternoon break was well worth Lauran's time.

Canyon Samaritan Helps Cash Check

BY MARGO WILLIAMS

Canyon has a Good Samaritan.

And the Carl Dandridges found him by accident last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dandridge, their three children and the family dog, drove into Canyon Tuesday after spending several long hours in Tulia and Happy.

The Dandridges were trying to find someone to cash a check for $2000.

The average person, when approached by a couple with a handwritten $2000 check, would naturally scoff and tell the inquirers 'no thanks.'

And this is just what the farm family had run into..until they met Leo Shaw.

Shaw is employed at Stevenson Pontiac and was somewhat taken aback when this couple walked into the shop and asked about cashing a $2000 check to purchase a used car.

He explained to the travel-worn couple, after a few gulps, that he was unable to help them, and the family left.

This was Monday afternoon, of last week and Shaw put the incident out of his mind until Tuesday morning when Attorney Gene McGlasson called him and asked for a brief conference.

Shaw made his way to McGlasson's office and found the Dandridge family telling their story.

The Dandridges had found their way to a lawyer for legal help after seeing Shaw, but they still needed some help cashing the check. And they could think only of the man at the car place.

As the group sat around the office, the Dandridge story began to unfold.

The tale unravels with Dandridge working on a farm near Happy. Mrs. Dandridge received a letter in the mail one day last week which contained a check and some legal papers.

Evidently the estate of Mrs. Dandridge's father had been settled and the family lawyer just mailed the handwritten check to the family.

Immediately the Dandridges decided to move to California where he had dreams of buying a gas station. Dandridge quit his job and the group headed out to cash their check.

But here is where the trouble began.

Who is going to cash a $2000 check, from Providence, Rhode Island? Well, the Dandridges soon found that no one was going to.

They tried in Tulia and Happy, and they soon discovered they had made a mistake.

Yes, they had no money, since the father and husband had quit his job.

The children were beginning to get hungry, the dog was tired of riding in the car, and Mr. and Mrs. Dandridge were scared they would never get out of the Panhandle on their way to California.

They found Shaw at this point and McGlasson, who in turn got in touch with the First National Bank.

Shaw went to the bank with the check, the papers and the story. After a few minutes of serious thought and hesitant questioning, bank officials air mailed the check to the bank in Rhode Island. They requested the Rhode Island bank wire back an answer concerning the $2000 check as quickly as possible.

Knowing this would take at least two days, and knowing further that the Dandridge family had little (if any) money, Shaw gave them $30 in hopes that would help them for a couple of days.

Mid-morning Friday a reply came from the Rhode Island bank. The check was good and the money was on its way.

And the Good Samaritan was rewarded.

As soon as the wire came in, the Dandridges trotted down to Stevenson Pontiac and bought a used car for their trip to the west coast.

As the three children, the friendly dog and the husband and wife drove out of town, they sighed and sent heartfelt thanks back to a man who believed that a handwritten $2000 check was good.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

We attended the Republican state convention Tuesday and talked briefly to the apparent GOP nominee for the Presidency, Barry Goldwater.

For us one of the highlights of the day, however, was the address by Bud Wilkinson, former Sooner football coach and now a candidate for the US Senate from Oklahoma.

We predict that if Bud gets into the Senate he'll wind up being just as smooth in politics as he has been on the gridiron. Bud is no orator yet but give him a few years of experience before crowds and he may even be eloquent. He has a gift for a well turned phrase and crowds do not rattle him.

He was heckled by a Scranton supporter but it didn't seem to faze him. Most poignant phrase of a day filled with oratory came when Bud noted that politicians have been saying they are for the "little man." "Well," said the Sooner coaching great, "I want to save freedom for the littlest people of all, my children and yours."

* * *

We spent several hours with the press corps which was on hand for Goldwater's appearance. It doesn't take a crystal ball for us to predict that the press generally will clobber him.

We hope to make a campaign trip this fall with each of the Presidential candidates. If we do so our mission will be to analyze the attitude of the reporters on the tours.

* * *

Our plane trip to Dallas Tuesday morning filled us with nostalgia. Not since our days in the Air Force, more than 20 years ago, had we made such an early morning flight.

There was a cloud cover and as we climbed on top of it there was the sun peeking across. Here and there, through a hole in the overcast, you could see a segment of the Golden Spread.

The clouds were towering, fleecy fellows looking for all the world like cotton candy on the carnival midway.

* * *

At Amarillo Air Terminal we engaged a young soldier in conversation. He had just flown in from Alaska, making the trip in five hours aboard an Air Force jet tanker.

He was an interesting fellow from Greenup, Ky. Told us he planned to drink a little moonshine while he was at home.

Said Greenup has some of the best moonshine in Kaintuck. He told us his late father used to run off a batch now and again and then age it in cinders of some type.

"Man that stuff IS sm-o-o-o-o-th," he declared, licking his lips.

"My dad run a still for years, and never got caught," he related. "He traded off the still house and it wasn't three months until the law was there. I don't know whether the old man had been paying them off or what."

He studied a minute and then added, "Course dad just made it for the family and I've got forty uncles."

* * *

Returning home from Dallas Tuesday evening we rode with several returning delegates from the state Democratic convention.

They were mostly of conservative leaning and appeared shaken by liberal stance of some convention delegations from this area.

In view of the Democratic national party policies, we can't understand their surprise at, for instance, the Randall County delegation lining up with, say Bexar County liberals.

David Matthis is a liberal and we think he has enough integrity that any delegation he would lead would be predominantly liberal.

We have a great deal more respect for a man who is willing to stand by his convictions than we have for a man who either has none or will not stand by them.

Both Governor John Connally and Congressman Walter Rogers have declared themselves conservative, being opposed to such administration-proposed measures as the pending Civil Rights Bill.

If they are men of integrity and are opposed to such key administration proposals, they cannot in good faith aid in any way the Johnson campaign this fall. If these two leaders, having taken the stands they have taken on key issues, actively campaign for the LBJ ticket this fall, then they do not deserve the respect of their constituiencies.

Though we are bitterly opposed to some of his political philosophies, we can respect a David Matthis who will stand in the face of certain criticism and say, "I am a liberal," a great deal more than we can respect politicians who try to walk on both sides of the street.

Friends Of Library Organized In Canyon

Randall City-County Library board has organized a Friends of the Library Club, according to Mrs. Mary Bonnie, library board president.

Roy Fortune has been appointed chairman of the organization, which was begun to help with the current campaign to expand and improve the local library.

Bob Wilkinson, Mike Morris, Arthur Hailes, Eddie Knowles, Odell LaGrone and Nick Dodson are serving on the Friends board.

"The main purpose of the new club is to benefit the library for immediate small items and work with the library board and building committee on a long-range improvement program," Mrs. Bonnie said.

Levi Cole is serving as financial advisor for the building committee of the library board and will work with the friends in this capacity.

The friends will sponsor an end-of-summer party and program for students who complete the summer reading program being sponsored by the library.

Membership in the club is open to any person or organization interested in the library program. Membership fees are set on a sliding scale with a minimum fee of $1.00 for individuals and $5.00 for organizations and clubs.

Approximately 20 individuals have joined the club according to Fortune. Individuals who subscribe with $5.00 will be listed as sustaining members $25.00 supporting members, and $100.00 listings will be for lifetime memberships.

Clubs who have joined the Friends of the Library Club include the Canyon Jaycee-ettes Woman's Book Club, and the Canyon Garden Club. Additional clubs are expected to join the organization when the fall club season resumes.

For additional information on the new club or to make membership applications contact OL 5-4731.

Attend National Jaycee Convention

Letter To The Editor

Mr. Troy Martin
Publisher
Canyon News
Canyon, Texas

Dear Troy:

I write this letter for three reasons:

1. You are one of the best friends I've ever had, and one can say what he wants to to a friend.

2. I live probably farther from Canyon than any other subscriber, and my old plains' friends and relatives should have an opportunity to read what a person from the hinterlands thinks.

3. You're dead wrong about capital punishment.

First of all, can the same man who wrote 'There were no atheists among the pilgrims" actually swallow this eye-for-an-eye humbug? I thought a man walked on this earth 2,000 years ago for the purpose of modifying this concept. Although the immorality of playing God is apparent, the fact that there are no gods among us makes human judgment about guilt (at best) not infallible. How dare we take the chance of ordering the judicial homicide of an innocent man?

The greatest argument against capital punishment, however, is not basically moralistic, but rather quite logical; to wit, capital punishment has not been found to deter crime. States which have abolished capital punishment show crime rates actually below the national average. In 1957 the national homicide average was 5.1 for every 100,000 inhabitants of the U. S. That same year states which abolished the death penalty included the following rates: Maine, 1.2; North Dakota, 1.3; Rhode Island, 1.2; Minnesota, 1.1; Michigan, 4.1; and Wisconsin, 1.7. It is true that two states -- Washington and South Dakota -- abolished the death penalty and later re-enacted it. The re-enactment in Washington in 1919, though, was colored by vindictive motivation. Records show that a man, during his murder trial, boasted that the state could do no more than imprison him. This one act motivated the legislature to re-legalize murder. Logic demands that general laws not result from the rantings of one obnoxious, odious character. Consitutionally, the converse is true. We who believe in the constitution know that the rights of society's greatest rat must be protected in order that Mr. Average Citizen will not, under any circumstances, lose those rights.

I admit that the ten-year sentence discussed in your paper was ridiculous. But, as a policeman, I doubt that, while dying in the line of duty, I would feel better in the knowledge that the killer would pay with his life. I would hope that my last thought would not be one of vengeance.

I grant that the ten-year sentence might have been unjust. I believe in punishment commensurate with the crime -- even harsh punishment if the crime justifies it. My argument is with the legalization of the most heinous of all criminal acts: murder.

Your friend,

P. S.
I'm preparing another epistle on the Ferre controversy.

Troy Martin, Editor
The Canyon News
Troy,

Although in general my political views differ decidedly from yours as expressed in your editorials, I commend you for including in full measure "the other side of the coin" on your editorial page and elsewhere in the Canyon News.

For example, I appreciated the Hilltop Views that our greatest Canyon citizen wrote, and we will miss this point of view based on his wide and long experience in human affairs. Your article on H. M. Baggerly is another example of excellent and fair journalism.

You interest me particularly because when I was your age my political views were the same as yours. As a matter of fact at this writing I confess that I have never voted for a Democrat President! Forgive me, my grandchildren, I voted for Nixon! I did not, however, buy an Edsel. When we were together at the University of Texas, I greatly admired Evetts Haley. He is one of our great historians of the Southwest, and even though today he is as disappointed in my political views as I am in his, I still have admiration for his courageous and forthright attitude. It seems to me that he let a certain prejudice bend his thinking which is remarkable in a historian so accurate and realistic. Perhaps he thinks the same of me.

Jesus said, "To him that hath is given, and from him that hath not is taken away even that little he hath." It should be emphasized that Jesus was decrying this state of economic injustice and not advocating it. The old economic theory on which world practice was founded roughly until the first half of the 20th Century was that money is wealth and there is only so much money and most people must be held to near starvation in order that a few can be wealthy, and those with wealth had power. Now we know that true wealth is the production of goods and services that our people create and that money is only a token of wealth. And people produce more when wealth is equitably distributed and some degree of insecurity is relieved. The past thirty years in this Country has proved that a truly Christian attitude in regard to wealth is the most productive of prosperity paradoxical as it may seem to a hard headed business man.

We are now experiencing a strange resurgence of "extreme right wing politics" in this Country partly because of our unprecedented prosperity. Very wealthy men frustrated because of the income tax they must pay--and in general more frustrated than informed--are pouring millions of dollars into "foundations," crusades, press, radio and TV spewing misinformation, prejudice and doubt into the minds of our People. It is possible that this misdirected energy may in the long run prove more hazardous than the Communism it purports to fight. Anyway, this experience will test the ability of the American People to sift the wheat from the chaff. My own prediction is that we will meet this challenge to reason and judgement. It proves that a well informed mind is the guardian angel of democracy.

It is very kind of you to send the Canyon News to "Mom" Lockhart. She reads every copy with great interest, and she appreciates your consideration of her. She is well and takes great interest especially in baseball.

Kind personal regards,
W. E. Lockhart, M.D.

Dear Editor

In view of the authority vested in me by me own exaggerated ego, I hereby set aside and proclaim Sunday, Juneteenth, as President's Day, and from sundown of the aforesaid Juneteenth all good citizens activated by the spirit of mercy will come to the aid of their country, and during that allotted time will cease and desist from cussing the President of the United States and damning the Supreme Court, with the provise that, besides being ostracized from society, anyone violating the principles of this edict shall have the proper precautions taken against them, as well as having his cigarettes taken away.

It is further provided herein that after the expiration of those twenty-four hours of grace all patriotic American Citizens may once again resume their favorite indoor and outdoor sport of cussing and damning, and furthermore, if in the meantime it doesn't rain, I, myself, may exercise my constitutional prerogative as set forth in the Bill of Rights and join the enthusiastic anvil chorus in their God-given right to cuss the Government in general and the President and the Supreme Court in particular.

Moved by the spirit of lunacy and written with my left hand, and with the authority vested in me as set forth in the Farm Bill, I hereby cause my seal, which is the Kiss of Death, to be placed upon this instrument. Given under my hand and seal at my office in the Northwest corner of a dry wheat field. A copy of this mess shall be placed where all those able to read may see it.

I remain your humble servant

Dear Editor:

Congratulations on an excellent Baseball Supplement to last week's Canyon News. It was a fine job. Among other things it demonstrated that the News is back of the Randall County Little League and Babe Ruth League. It also indicated the scope of those two organizations. Perhaps no other town in the Panhandle our size can boast of such a well organized and smoothly functioning program as this.

May I please make one correction. I was not the first president of the Little League. "Bud" Parker very capably filled that spot. In fact, the nearest I have come to holding an office in that league was the summer that I was the head umpire.

In fairness to the very nice young lady reporter, she had her leagues confused. I was the first president of the Babe Ruth League.

Sincerely,
C. C. Callarman

MEANDERING WITH MARGO

Female reporters often are at a great disadvantage on breaking news stories, and Ann and I found most of them last week.

Saturday night began rather quietly with plans to attend Fandangle. On our way to the amphitheater, we heard a news bulletin of a glider plane down in a field, in Randall County of course.

Naturally, the thing to do was to whip out to the field and get a story and picture. We drove up and suddenly realized the glider was some 100 yards from the air strip...100 yards of good, black mud, fresh from the rains.

This did not dampen our spirits as we pulled off our shoes and wadded through the plowed field of mud and short stalks.

After a short period of walking, taking pictures and interviewing, we were again on our way to Fandangle.

We realized we were a little late when we had to park across the street from the Fandangle parking lot, but still not dampened, we slipped into seats for an evening of pure enjoyment.

I had leaned over to make a comment about no rain when the first drops of a cloud burst hit me.

We made a quick dash to shelter to wait out the "shower", and 45 minutes later we decided the performance was washed out.

We trudged through the wind, rain and mud (which we were used to at this point), all the time trying desperately to keep the $300 camera from being damaged.

Finally in a special effort we dashed to the car, and stopped just long enough to fasten our seatbelts.

I failed to realize the car defroster was not working properly and the windshield wipers were not electric.

On my way up the steep canyon road, I learned rapidly that roommates are nice things to have around. As Ann kept the windshield wiped clean and told me what direction to turn the wheel, I closed my eyes and blindly guided the old green bug, slowly up the canyon.

I was having trouble with the wipers. To get up the hill I had to stomp hard on the accelerator, but in so doing, I lost the use of the air wipers.

We talked about pulling over to the side and waiting for the rain to stop, then we thought about getting stuck...so we kept going upward.

Finally at the top, I pulled over and sighed a deep thanks to the car, Ann and anyone else who might listen.

We sat there, in what seemingly was a paved widening in the road for a few minutes, regaining our nerves.

As I began to drive the car forward panic struck again. This wasn't paving, it was just good 'ole' wet dirt...commonly known as mud in these parts.

For another 30 minutes we rocked the poor car back and forth, digging ourselves deeper into the hole.

No one seemed to want to stop, and we had visions of spending the night in a cold car stuck in a mud hole on top of Palo Duro Canyon.

We laughed a lot, cried a lot and sang a lot, but still no help appeared.

Then a voice 'hollared'..Put it in gear.

Behind us stood a man, stripped to the waist standing knee deep in mud willing to give us a push.

Ann and I send our deepest thanks to the man, whoever he may be. Muddy, dirty, and wet, he was the best looking thing we had seen in many days.

Totally 'garbaged' by the evening's activities, we finally made it home and collapsed. But before dropping off to sleep, Ann muttered something about mud, rain, women and reporting.

Siren System For Tornadoes Is Clarified

The siren system for tornado and fire alarms have been clarified for Canyon residents.

A tornado warning is eight blasts of the siren. The signal for "all clear" is six blasts.

One long continuous blast means that the siren is shorting out somewhere, and should not be confused with the actual torfiado alert.

Two blases are given if there is a fire during the daytime. At night, the fire alarm is four blasts.

Canyon Takes 10-0 Victory Over Adrian

Canyon's American Legion baseball team scored a 10-0 shutout victory over Vega Sunday afternoon in a game played at Adrian.

The game, moved from Vega because of rain, was Canyon's first win against two losses. Gary Culp went the distance on the mound, allowing only 2 hits and no runs. Culp struck out 17 men and had a perfect game going for six and two-thirds innings. Losing pitcher was Brown, who allowed 11 hits and 10 runs.

Randy Cook and Culp both hit triples during the game, and Culp also doubled. Leading batters for Canyon were Cook, with a perfect 2 hits in 2 times at bat; Neal Thrasher, with 2 for 3; Culp with 2 for 4; and Skip Moore, 1 for 2. Canyon committed only 1 error.

Vega managed only 2 hits in 30 times at bat and committed 4 errors.

Totals for the Canyon-Vega game, scheduled here last night, will appear in next week's Canyon News. The Canyon vs. Perryton game, which was set for June 10, was postponed because of rain.

Canyon's next game is Sunday afternoon against Perryton at Perryton.

Judge Chapman Canyon Rotary Club Speaker

"This is a country of laws, not men."

Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals Alton Chapman of Amarillo made this statement Tuesday at the Canyon Rotary Club meeting.

Chapman told the group the United States was a country of laws, not men. He explained that Hitler's Germany, Khruschev's Russia and Castro's Cuba were countries of men, not of laws.

Chapman continued saying no institution needs more constructive criticism than the Supreme Court.

In his talks "The Supreme Court and its Critics," Chapman pointed out that if criticism is made of individuals rather than the system the court and our system of government will be destroyed.

"We should criticise the court's performance, not their honor. And the people to criticise are those who have proper legal background and who will make proper research of the questions involved," he concluded.

Judge and Mrs. Ike Chism of Albany, Texas spent the weekend with his brother's family, the Ocie Chisms.

Girls Scouts, Brownies Pick 'Outer Space' Camp Theme

"Outer Space" is the theme for the annual summer day camp for Canyon Girl Scouts and Brownies being held this week.

"We had 140 registered campers at the opening program Monday morning," said Mrs. Charles Hester, chairman of the council and camp director.

An overnight camp-out for the older girls in scouting will be held tonight, June 18, at the campsite east of town. The weeks activities are being held at the Rod and Gun Club on the Dale Martin Ranch.

"We will have only one overnight campout for the girls," says Mrs. Nester. Approximately 21 older girls are serving as program aides and assistant supervisors for the day camp and will be honored with the overnight stay at the ranch.

A special end of camp program will be held at 2:00 p.m. Friday with all parents urged to attend.

"The girls will each present a segment of the program through skits, talks, songs, and other things that the girls have learned," says Mrs. Nester. Projects and crafts will be on display during the special program.

The annual five day summer camp will include hiking, crafts, nature study, outdoor games, scouting lessons and afternoon swims in Tierra Blanca Creek.

Daily camp sessions are being held from 8:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. with the girls doing their lunchtime cooking outdoors along with other project activity of the scouting program.

Mrs. Nester is serving as camp director with Mrs. Alfred Daniel as co-director and Mrs. Billy Hill as camp nurse.

The scouts have been divided into nine 'outer space capsules' with a papoose unit for children of workers and supervisors.

Leaders who have worked with Girl Scout and Brownie troops this year are serving as supervisors at the camp. They include Mrs. Wesley Cox, Mrs. Bill Taylor, Mrs. L. C. Robinson, Mrs. B. J. Ormsby, Mrs. Troy Martin, Mrs. Sam Jolly, Mrs. Keith Jones, Mrs. Dean Nicholas and Mrs. Florence Moulton.

GIRL SCOUT Summer Day camp began Monday morning for local Girl Scouts and Brownies. Glenda Bender, Debbie Wright, Linda Dudenhoffer, Susan Lair, Martha Harper and Paula Read are shown as they work on sit-on mats. The mats provide one project during the week-long camp. The day camp ends Friday with flag ceremonies.

As of Tuesday, 20 schools had completed enrollment in the workshop sponsored by the speech department, according to Dr. Crannell Tolliver, department head.

"Most of the schools represented are from the Panhandle area, but also come from as far as Mangum, Oklahoma; Wichita Falls and Eldorado. We estimate an attendance of more than 40 people," Dr. Tolliver stated.

WT Library Given Books

A collection of more than 1,000 books and periodicals in the French language, worth thousands of dollars, has been presented to the West Texas State University library by an Amarillo woman.

The French library of the late Henry Earl Fuqua has been given to the WTSU library by his mother, Mrs. H. E. Fuqua. The donor's son spent several years in France.

"Heretofore we had only about 50 volumes in French, and now we have 500 for use by our language students," said F. M. Blackburn, WTSU librarian. "This is a fine collection of books and literary journals, published in France, which would have been difficult, and in some cases impossible for us to obtain."

The collection, now being catalogued for circulation, will contain book plates honoring Fuqua.

LOOKING OVER a collection of French books and periodicals donated to the West Texas State University library are Dr. Ples Harper, head of the modern languages department; Mrs. H. E. Fuqua of Amarillo, donor; Mrs. Monica Heiman, French instructor; and F. M. Blackburn, WTSU librarian. Mrs. Fuqua presented the volumes to WTSU in memory of her son, the late Henry Earl Fuqua.

Carruth Attends Rotary Meeting

Dr. T. Paige Carruth, dean of men at West Texas State University, returned Saturday from the Rotary International Convention held in Toronto, Canada.

More than 14,000 Rotarians and their families attended the convention which began June 11, and 72 countries were represented.

Dr. Carruth spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Neil Peterson of Toronto. Each Rotarian received invitations to lunch with Canadian families, according to Dr. Carruth, and he requested to visit with a fisherman. "We were really amused," Dr. Carruth said. "Our fishing didn't have a thing in common. He was a multi-millionaire with a 78-foot sailing yatch, memberships in five yatching clubs, and his idea of fishing was taking a cruise in the Bahamas. I had lake and stream fishing in Canada more in mind. But they were most gracious people and it was very pleasant to visit in their home."

"Our trip included mostly work and sightseeing. We saw Harold Berg of Stockholm, Sweden, with whom some of our members correspond, and our Rotary Club presented an oil painting valued around $200 to him."

Four plenary sessions were held during the convention, in which Rotarian ideals and philosophies were discussed, according to Dr. Carruth. Among the featured speakers were Lester B. Pearson, prime minister of Canada, who talked on world peace; Clinton Anderson, United States senator from New Mexico; and Lord Thompson of Fleet, from England, who discussed "what Rotarians can do to better relations between the communistic world and the free world."

"During one of our sessions, we transacted legislation for the Rotary Clubs." "Carruth said, "We had several afternoon meetings. We had one vocational crafts assembly and I met with University Administrators from all over the world for a two-hour discussion on the relationship between Rotary and administrators."

"There was also one work session for new club presidents, during which our duties were outlined and suggestions presented on how we could boost our organizations."

"The entertainment features were most impressive. We saw an original musical production, written and produced by professionals of Toronto, which interpreted Toronto to visitors."

"Monday, we attended the International Rotary President's Ball. Tuesday was the International Friendship Banquet, with each delegation seated with a delegation from another country. Our People of this area of Texas were matched with the African delegation; all of the people were white and bi-lingual. There were 15 or 20 of these groups."

"Probably the most spectacular entertainment was the Ice Revue Wednesday evening, with performances beginning with children of the Rotarians of Canada starting with the youngest and each act with progressively older performers. The entire production was supplemented by Olympic skating stars--it was fantastic. It was held in Maple Leaf Gardens."

"There were perhaps two dozen people there that I knew--three Amarillo couples, others from Lubbock, Midland and Sweetwater. But I made friends from all over the world. And in addition, I plan to correspond with these people during the coming year for an International Contacts program."

ASCS Permits Wheat, Feed Substitutions

Substitution between wheat and feed grains will be authorized under the 1965 programs to permit greater flexibility in farm operations, Jerrell G. Shaw, office manager, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service, announced this week.

The program determination was announced early so that summer fallow operations for next year's crop may take place promptly.

Agricultural legislation provides for such a substitution in the 1964 and 1965 wheat and feed grain programs, but it could not be put into effect for 1964 because of the lack of time, he stated.

Shaw explained the substitution will apply on individual farms only if the farm has a feed grain base and a wheat allotment. The substitution provisions may be used by producers who meet at least the minimum diversion for both wheat and feed grains.

As under this year's wheat program, marketing certificates will be issued in 1965 to program cooperators however, the number of certificates allocated to a farm will not be increased because of the substitution of wheat for feed grains. The certificates will be provided for the smaller of (1) the normal production of the wheat acreage allotment, multiplied by the domestic and export allocation percentages—which will be announced later; or (2) the wheat acreage planted for harvest multiplied by the normal yield.

Total wheat production of producers who carry out wheat program provisions will be eligible for price-support loans even though the wheat acreage is in excess of the wheat allotment because of the substitution provisions, Shaw reported.

When feed grains are grown in place of wheat, the feed grain production of program cooperators will be eligible for price-support loans Shaw reported. If price support payments are authorized as a part of the 1965 feed grain program, substitution of feed grains for wheat will not increase the payments available. Price support payments will be limited to the normal production of the feed grains base less the diverted acreage (at least the minimum diversion under the feed grain program), Shaw said.

Three Youths Attend Camp

Three Canyon students are attending the Ceta Glen Christian Youth Camp this week with Mrs. Ross Russell as sponsor.

Attending the week of youth camp are Marsha Tidwell, Stanley Ebling and Steven Russell. The camp for youth of churches in Districts I and II will be concluded on Saturday, May 20.

Boat And Ski Club Day Set

Sunday will be Club Day for the Boat and Ski Club, as they sponsor a closed tournament for members only. Events open around 8:30 a.m. at Buffalo Lake.

Approximately 35 or 40 club members are expected to participate, according to Kenneth Clark. Either trophies or ribbons will be given winners in events which include slalom, jumping and trick events.

Dog Tags, License At City Hall

That boy and his first dog are beginning to make dreams for the summer months ahead and the fun they will have together.

But the fun will not begin until dog tags and shots are given to the furry friend of every young boy.

Dog tags are available at City Hall, according to City Manager Dewey Bryant, and shots can be given at Markahm Vetinarian Clinic.

Parents are urged to get the license and shots for the dog, before their son and his favorite caninee hit the trail to summer adventures.

Baseball Batting

Rains during the weekend forced baseball game cancellations in both Babe Ruth and Little League play. The schedule for make-up games is pending.

In Little League baseball, the major league Redlegs rallied to stop the Braves 5-1 after a 3-extra-innings battle. The Redlegs scored 4 runs in the top of the 9th and held the Braves scoreless in the bottom of the 9th inning to take the win.

Both the Redlegs and the Braves had scored 1 run in the second inning and neither team could break the scoring deadlock until the 9th inning rally. Winning pitcher was Desley Altmiller, who allowed the Braves 5 hits. Pitching for the Braves was Stewart Downing, who gave up 6 hits.

Tuesday night in the majors the Yankees took the Dodgers 9-6.

On the mound for the Yankees was Larry Daniels and Tommy Tucker did the catching. Daniels struck out 8 and gave up 3 hits.

Lynn Salmon pitched for the Dodgers, while David Smith and Joe Ziegler were the catchers. Salmon struck out 6 and gave up 8 hits. Calvin Yarborough walloped a home run for the Yankee team.

The Colts and Indians swung back into minor league play Monday night with the Colts winning a tight one 5.4

Vance Robinson was the winning pitcher, with Mike Smith catching. John McClain pitched for the Indians and Randy Lyles was the catcher. The Colts scored 4 runs in the second inning and 1 in the third for the win, while the Indians had 3 first inning runs and 1 in the fourth.

Tigers-10 and Cubs-4 was the final in Tuesday night baseball. The Tigers took an early first inning lead 4-0, scored 3 runs in the third and 3 in the fourth. The Cubs scored 1 run in the third, two in the fourth and 1 in the fifth but were unable to get a scoring-rally started.

Ron Risinger was the winning pitcher; Richard Thompson was catchng. Gary Barnett pitched for the Cubs and Tim Vanvalkenburg was the catcher.

Babe Ruth League play Tuesday night ended with the White Sox pulling a close one out of the fire, as they stopped the Cardinals 7-6.

Dennis Pearson was the White Sox hurler, striking out 6 in the tight-scoring battle. Max Sunderman pitched for the Cardinals striking out 10 batters.

Happy romped to a 10-0 victory over the Giants last Thursday before the rain could wash out the second Thursday game between Umbarger and the Cardinals.

Wickey Culp was pitching for Happy; he had 15 strike-outs. Richard Thrasher, Giant pitcher, struck out 5.

Giants topped the Pirates in a tight-squeeze game 13-12, June 9. Ronnie Bacon was the winning pitcher, with 6 strike-outs. Rycke Sorgee pitched for the Pirates and had 8 strike-outs.

Two games were played Saturday, June 6, in the Babe Ruth League. The Cardinals scored 11 - Giants 4, in the opening game. Chris Byerley and Mike Barnes were Cardinal pitchers, while Gary Prichard pitched for the Giants.

Fannin defested the Pirates in the last game 9-7. Winning pitcher was Ricky Warren with 8 strike-outs; David Rossi struck out 7 for the Pirates.

The White Sox rampaged to a 16-2 slaughter of Happy's Yankees June 5. Mark Olsen was winning pitcher, striking out 6 batters. Bill Vernon pitched for Happy and struck out 7. Joe Moore, Dennis Pearson and Culp all had doubles during the game.

Earl Crump, manager of the Babe Ruth League Giants several years ago, will be Giant coach this season in the absence of Dr. Emilio Caballero, according to League president Dr. Dudley Moore.

Stroud Voted GOP Delegate

A Randall County man has been elected a delegate to the national Republican convention.

He is J. Ernest Stroud of South Amarillo. Stroud was named at the Republican conclave held in Dallas.

At Houston, David Matthis was successful in getting his delegation seated at the Democratic state convetion. The Randall County delegation cast its 12 votes against the State Democratic Executive Committee report.

The Democratic wrangle centered around the seating of a conservative delegation from Bexar in preference to a liberal delegation.

The convention refused to seat a Randall County delegation led by Marion Bruce, Randall Democratic county chairman-elect. The Bruce delegation was a product of a rump county convention held following the first primary.

Matthis is incumbent county chairman and led what was referred to by his adversaries as a liberal delegation to the state convention. The Matthis delegation lined up with the liberals at the convention.

Randall Republicans were led by John Kenehan, South Amarillo, county chairman.

The GOP convention reeled off without incident and gave Senator Barry Goldwater its 56 votes in the national convention, pledging its delegates to stick with Goldwater until the Arizona senator releases them.

Art Show Deadline June 29

Entries are open until June 29 for the Palo Duro Art Show to be held at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum during August.

The entry fee is $4, which will cover the entrance of from one to a maximum of four paintings or slides, according to Mrs. Olive Vandruff Bugbee, museum curator of art.

"People living locally may bring paintings to the museum instead of slides. We don't want anyone not entering because they just weren't able to have slides made," Mrs. Bugbee stressed.

Only representational art may be entered and no abstractions will be accepted. Paintings must be original work in oil, watercolor, casein, or mixed media. Suggested theme for the show is "The American Scene" (old or new). Paintings must not be over 40 inches in either dimension including frame.

All works should be priced or marked "not for sale." When slides have been juried, the accepted paintings will be sent for and must be sent prepaid to the museum by July 27.

The show, co-sponsored by the museum and the West Texas State University fine arts department, will be in the museum Hall of Fine Arts.

Awards to be given include: Best of the Show painting, $300; oil paintings, $150, $50 and $25 and identical monetary prizes to go to the top three places in water color and casein or mixed media divisions.

Members of the jury include Reveau Bassett, practicing artist and nationally-known painter from Dallas; Dr. Emilio Caballero, practicing artist and head of the University art department; Sam Gholson, practicing artist and department head at Amarillo Junior College; Mrs. Bugbee, practicing artist and museum art curator; and Gort Rushmer, University photographer and photographer instructor.

Grass Fires Become Costly Carelessness For Canyon People

"Every grass fire in Canyon costs the city a minimum of $100 per call," according to Canyon Fire Chief Joe Rice.

The number of grass fires in Canyon through last Wednesday had reached 55. The city averages approximately 110 grass fires per year.

"Over ninety-nine percent of the time, grass fires are caused by people's carelessness." Rice estimated. "People just don't use their commonsense--that's the best precaution for fire prevention. Everyone should watch the way he uses or handles fire."

"Some of the most common causes of fires are burning trash barrels in the city limits, outside the city limits, are lightning, burning fence rows and campfires."

According to Rice, the worst months for grass fires are during December, January, February and March.

Stressing the use of common sense in fire prevention, Rice listed several tips on safety. "People often set their trash barrels afire and go to town and forget them and the wind causes the fire to spread. You should never go off and leave a trash barrel burning."

"We always have lots of campfire trouble at this time of the year. Be sure you clean out a good and wide area before building the campfire."

"Be careful during back-yard cookouts. There is usually a water faucet located somewhere in the yard, and you should have a garden hose nearby."

"Palo Duro Canyon is an exceptionally bad fire-area. Picnickers and campers need to be extremely careful down there. We had one very bad fire at Palo Duro May 12; seven sections of land burned. We worked 10 hours to stop it. Not only the park area is damaged by those fire, but also the ranches which surround it."

Canyon's fire department is in the process of buying a new fire truck now, Rice said. "By the time we get it and get equipment for it, the cost will be approximately $5,000. The truck is primarily for grass fires."

The Canyon fire department has one paid employee and 30 volunteers. "The volunteers are the backbone of the whole operation," Rice stressed. In discussing the worst in-town fire this year, which was a recent grass blaze at 28th street and seventh avenue, Rice said, "A considerable amount of damage was done--and several of our firemen suffered painful burns while fighting it."

Advice on reporting fires is given townspeople by Rice. "On reporting grass fires, be sure you give your name and the location of the fire. We expect you to be excited, but we have lost a considerable amount of time trying to find out the location when you forget to tell us."
